The Puzzle Piece by Ian Potter

On Saturday a boy named Jack was finishing a jigsaw puzzle. One piece was missing. He was shocked!!

He looked under his bed, on the table... he looked everywhere... but then he remembered the last place he saw it.

There it was, under some clothes. He went back to finish it. He was happy again.

He was so proud of himself that Jack showed his mother. His mother was proud of him too!

The Keys by Tayne Perry

There was a boy named Bob. He lived near a school called Mil Lel. He used to go to Glencoe Primary School but now he was going to Mil Lel. He was really excited because it was his first day!

At lunch he saw something shiny. He picked it up. It was keys for a car. He went to the front office to see Mrs Soo. Mrs Soo was not there so he waited for five minutes.

Then Mrs Soo arrived at the front office. Bob said, "Someone lost the keys to their car."

Mrs Soo said, "They could be my keys! Yep! They're my keys! Thank you!"

Bob said, "You're welcome!"

Mental Routines

Sting in the Tail is what we call Maths challenges. Isabella worked out how much 300 jubes would cost, and how much change there would be from $50.00.
